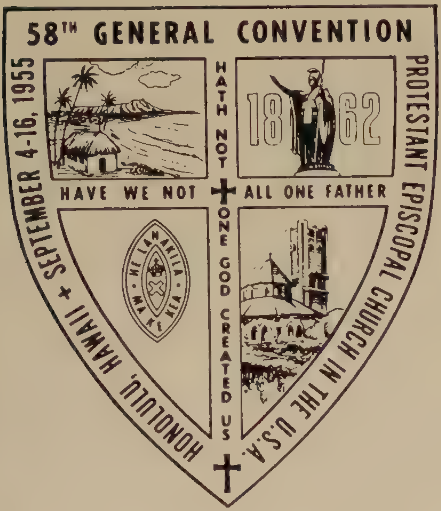
General Convention Digest . . . HONOLULU, 1955



58TH GENERAL CONVENTION
SEPTEMBER 4-16, 1955
PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN THE U.S.A.
HONOLULU, HAWAII
HATH NOT ONE GOD CREATED US
HAVE WE NOT ALL ONE FATHER
1862

The 58th General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the USA, meeting in Honolulu, T. H., September 4th to 15th, took the following action:

THE CHURCH'S PROGRAM

- Adopted a Budget of $6,807,947.84 per year for the missionary, educational, and social work of the Church, representing an increase of $970,000 over last year's budget. The increases affected most of the National Council Departments.

- Removed the entire amount of the Church School Lenten Offering, amounting to more than $600,000 per year, from the regular Budget and set it aside for advance work. Since about $150,000 of it was already being handled in this manner, some $450,000 more will be available for special missionary projects in the future.

- Reaffirmed the policy that undesignated legacies should be used primarily for advance work. In extreme emergencies, up to 50% of such legacies may be used for balancing the budget.

- Reaffirmed the "pay as you go" basis of the Church's program, ordering the National Council to trim the budget each year to agree with estimated income, but provided that missionary salary and travel items should be protected at the cost of all other items.

- Asked the National Council to continue and expand its program of surveys in all missionary areas of the Church, through the Unit of Research and Field Study "to increase the effectiveness of the work and to realize economies in administration."

- Ordered the National Council to review grants made under the Budget to "Cooperating Agencies" such as the Girls' Friendly Society, Episcopal Service to Youth, etc., and to adjust them when necessary.

- Approved publication of a hymnal in Spanish by the Latin American bishops, subject to later review by Convention.

- Took up an offering among Convention members for the congregation at Pearl Harbor to help them build a new church. Of the final $12,000 needed, $8,734 had been received at the Convention's close. The $4,140 offering received at the opening service was given to the work on Okinawa.

- Commended diocesan programs of tithing and proportionate giving and asked National Council to help promote such concepts of Christian stewardship.

- Approved present method of assigning diocesan shares of Church budget but set up a committee to study "apportionment of quotas" for report to next Convention.

EDUCATION AND EVANGELISM

- Took no action on the new curriculum of the Department of Christian Education. Powerful pressures pro and con in the House of Deputies resulted in a compromise resolution which was not concurred in by the Bishops.

- Strongly endorsed the White House Conference on Education to be held November 8th to December 1, 1955, and urged the Church to cooperate in making it a success.

- Declared it a "policy of the Church" to ask each adult baptized or confirmed to bring at least one other person to Christ and His Church within the year; told clergy to shape their Baptismal and Confirmation instruction accordingly.

- Referred to the Commission to study General Convention a proposal to make General Convention more religious by providing periods in House of Deputies for people to testify to their religious experience.

- Urged younger clergy to consider service as a chaplain in the armed forces as a temporary or permanent vocation.

• Took no action (House of Bishops) on request of House of Deputies "praying the House of Bishops may see fit to elect a Suffragan Bishop for the Armed Forces without further delay."

• Amended Canon on ministers and their duties to require them to give instruction in Holy Scriptures as well as in Episcopal Church teachings.

• Endorsed the Episcopal Hour, a radio series initiated by the Province of Sewanee, and asked other dioceses and missionary districts to help expand the program's coverage. It is now heard in 71 dioceses and missionary districts on the Armed Forces network.

• Endorsed the Girls' Friendly Society and felicitated it on its coming 80th anniversary.

• Continued the program of Forward Movement publications under the Presiding Bishop, with congratulations on its 20th anniversary this year.

• Tried, but failed (House of Deputies) to agree on definitions of Church member, communicant, etc., and referred (both Houses) a report on the subject to the Church for further study. The report was prepared by the Committee on Canons of the House of Deputies.

• Instructed the secretary of General Convention to prepare and distribute through the Church the resolutions "intended to edify and instruct our people" so that the edification would be accomplished.

INTERCHURCH RELATIONS

Anglican

• Received the final report of the Committee on the Anglican Congress with "sincere appreciation of the splendid work" done by the Committee.

• Charged the Ecumenical Relations Commission with exploring "all practicable ways and means by which the relations between our Church and the other branches of the Anglican Communion may be deepened and strengthened."

• Sent greetings to the Church of England in Canada, then holding its General Synod in Edmonton, Alberta. [At the synod, this Church voted to change its name to the "Anglican Church of Canada."]

Other Churches

• Approved a Churchwide study of the Church of South India as well as the Ceylon and North India union plans during the triennium under the auspices of the Ecumenical Commission.

• Voted that a delegation be sent to visit the Church of South India, but provided no funds for the purpose in General Convention budget.

• Continued policy of designating 15% of offering taken in parish Churches on Good Friday to the work of the Commission on Assistance to the Eastern Orthodox Church. The Commission received $33,000 from this source in the past Triennium.

• Designated $15,000 annually from the Good Friday Offering for the Jerusalem and the East Mission and provided that the balance of the offering is to be used for "work in the Near East" at the discretion of the National Council.

• Continued the Commission on Approaches to Unity, which is currently engaged in discussions with the Methodist Church looking toward a mutually acceptable ministry. Also authorized the Commission to negotiate with Presbyterians and others.

SOCIAL AND POLITICAL PROBLEMS

• Thanked God for Honolulu's example of "fellowship in Christ" transcending racial barriers.

• Called upon all Churchmen to uphold Supreme Court's decision against segregation in public schools.

• Advocated statehood for Hawaii and Alaska.

• Asked the Standing Liturgical Commission to prepare "a prayer or series of intercessions" "for all those whose rights and dignity as children of God are in any way withheld or impaired. . . ."

• Asked parents, clergy, and parishes to work with young people and prevent juvenile delinquency.

• Praised the 27th Infantry (Wolfhound) Regiment, USA, for giving almost $200,000 to Holy Family Home, Osaka, Japan.

• Requested a concerted attack on the narcotics traffic. Social Reconstruction Commission's demand for severer penalties was deleted from the resolution and praise for U.S. and U.N. enforcement efforts was added.

• Deputies passed, but Bishops did not concur in, a resolution deploring moral conditions in the Armed Forces and asking the President and defense department to review their current policies in this realm.

• Instructed the National Council to study the spiritual and social problems of the elderly.

• Approved such interdenominational cooperation in attacking social problems as "is in accord with the Faith as this Church has received it."

- Appointed a Joint Commission on Alcoholism to continue the work of the Joint Committee on the subject appointed three years ago.

- Deplored crime and horror comics, recognizing industry's efforts at self-regulation but recommending vigilance to legislators and law-enforcement agencies.

- Urged that the United Nations be supported and strengthened.

- Commended the growing movement for self-government in Asia and Africa.

- Appointed a Joint Commission on Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy to study the Church's role in the field. This replaced a proposal from the diocese of Washington that the Church raise money to buy a nuclear reactor for a Far Eastern nation.

- Advocated the employment of disabled and handicapped veterans in industry.

EPISCOPATE

- Elected two new bishops: Very Rev. Arnold M. Lewis for the missionary district of Salina and Rev. Plino L. Simoes for the missionary district of Southwestern Brazil. Bishop Krischke of that district had been translated to Southern Brazil to replace Bishop Pithan, retired.

- Accepted the resignations of Bishop Nichols of Salina and Bishop Juhan of Florida.

- Gave Montana and Oregon permission to elect bishops coadjutor.

- Initiated a constitutional amendment taking the right to vote in the House of Bishops away from retired bishops but continuing to give them a seat and voice in the House. After study by dioceses and missionary districts, this comes up for ratification in 1958.

THE MINISTRY

- Asked dioceses and districts to appoint lay committees to consult with vestries about adequate clerical salaries and expense allowances.

- Revised Canon 48, section 8, on compulsory retirement (which takes effect in 1957) so that it will now provide: (1) all clergy must resign at 72 and may not under any circumstances continue in their former work; (2) thereafter they may work elsewhere with consent of Bishop and Standing Committee, for periods as long as a year with possibility of renewal of permission. As finally adopted the new law is entirely independent of the Church Pension Fund's rules regarding payment of pensions to retired clergy. The Bishop and Standing Committee decide who may work and how long, the Pension Fund decides who is eligible for a pension, and whether his pension must under certain circumstances be temporarily suspended.

- Reaffirmed the present system of the Church Pension Fund for group coverage providing pensions of definite dollar amount, instead of common stock equities of fluctuating value. This implements a commission report rejecting the "El Paso Plan" based on the latter concept.

- Honored the memory of the late Captain Ian Benton of El Paso, chief protagonist of the El Paso Plan, as one who did "as much or more to give our retired clergy a reasonable minimum pension than any one since the founder of the Church Pension Fund."

- Called the attention of both active and retired clergy to the benefits of voluntary coverage on a self-employed basis under the present Social Security Law.

- Reiterated that it is unfeasible to include sisters or mothers of deceased unmarried clergy in Church Pension Fund benefits.

- Continued Commission to Study Pension Plans and Salaries and asked it to consider (1) individual annuity contracts for sisters and mothers of deceased unmarried clergy under certain circumstances; (2) making the widow's grant of $1,000 available to such persons.

- Asked the Church Pension Fund to study the effect of permitting clergy to retire on pension at 65, or after 40 years' service in the ministry, instead of at 68 or later. Also (with the Commission) to study the possibility of continuing the pension of retired clergy who return to active service at a stipend of not more than $1200 per year.

- Reelected the Church Pension Fund as the Recorder of Ordinations (an official, who may be a corporation, charged with keeping track of all additions to and removals from the ministry).

- Amended the canon on deacons to provide that those who have come in under reduced educational requirements may not be transferred to another diocese without the consent of the bishop of that diocese.

Theological Education

- After much parley between the two Houses, "received" instead of "approved" the report of the Joint Commission on Theological Education, commending it to the attention of the Church but taking exception to a section criticizing a seminary of the diocese of Lexington and educational programs in Long Island and Pittsburgh (the last had already been discontinued). Exception was taken to another section, and its implementing resolution. The latter, defeated in the House of Deputies, would have permitted students in any incorporated seminary to count the last two academic years as satisfying the requirement that a man must be a candidate for two years before ordination. Present wording (which remains in canon) is "seminary of the Church."

- Added "advanced theology" to list of elective subjects candidates may offer.

- Called on all parishes and missions to take up an offering on Theological Education Sunday, or on an alternative date locally chosen.

- Urged the activation of provincial boards of examining chaplains as already authorized by canon.

- Asked dioceses and missionary districts to give financial aid to seminarians and to raise special funds for the purpose.

- Added four laymen to the executive committee of the Theological Education Commission at the Commission's request and renewed its $10,000 triennial appropriation.

CHURCH GOVERNMENT

- Reelected the Rev. Canon Theodore O. Wedel as president of the House of Deputies and the Rev. Canon C. Rankin Barnes as Secretary of House of Deputies, Secretary of General Convention, and Editor of the Convention Journal.

- Elected the Rev. Alexander M. Rodger as secretary of the House of Bishops and registrar of Convention, replacing the Rev. Dr. John F. Fitzgerald.

- Reelected Mr. H. M. Addinsell as treasurer of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society (and the National Council); and Mr. Frank Gulden as treasurer of General Convention.

- Defeated (House of Deputies) a proposal to drop the word "Protestant" from the name of the Church.

- Initiated a Constitutional amendment (subject to ratification in 1958) modifying the Presiding Bishop's power to change place of General Convention by adding "with the advice and consent of the National Council" and giving him, with the Council, the power to change the date also.

- Chose Miami Beach, Fla., as the place of the next Convention, setting the date for October 5, 1958. Evidence was presented to show that the diocese of South Florida and the city of Miami Beach were completely unsegregated racially.

- Adopted a General Convention Budget (covering governmental expenses of the Church,) of $327,381.72, plus later appropriations of $4,000. In addition to the Presiding Bishop's salary and some of his expenses, this covers the expenses of Committees, Commissions, etc. It will be financed by a triennial tax of $12 per clergyman for dioceses and $3.00 per clergyman for missionary districts.

- Set up a small committee to publish supplements to the White-Dykman Annotated Constitution and Canons.

- Elected members of National Council, trustees of Church Pension Fund, and trustees of General Theological Seminary.

- Made various small canonical amendments including one requiring lay readers to be licensed by the bishop of the diocese in which they canonically reside.

WORSHIP

- Reelected Rev. Dr. John W. Suter as custodian of the Standard Book of Common Prayer.

- Rejected (House of Bishops) a constitutional amendment authorizing trial use of a proposed Prayer Book.

- Rewrote the Canon on Church Music, continuing control by the rector but emphasizing the role of music in worship.

HISTORY

- Reelected Rev. Dr. Walter H. Stowe as historiographer of General Convention.

- Made plans to celebrate the founding of Jamestown, Va., (1607) on its 350th anniversary in 1957, with a special committee, a $2,000 appropriation and an invitation to the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London to join in the celebration.

- Continued the Historical Magazine and the Church Historical Society with their regular appropriations, plus a special item of $9,000 to pay for moving the Society's library, collections, and archives to its spacious new quarters in the Theological Seminary of the Southwest.

OTHER ACTION

- Called attention to the important work of the American Church Building Fund and urged parishes to take up a collection "at least once a year" for the Fund.

- Endorsed the work of the American Bible Society and asked the Church to support it more adequately.

The Church's Evolving Architecture

In selecting church buildings that represent the development of the Episcopal Church's architecture from the establishment of the Anglican Communion on this continent to the present day, the Directory here begins a pictorial record that will be continued in each succeeding issue with pictures of churches built in the previous triennium. As a member of the Architectural Commission, I feel that it is an important undertaking as a valuable record as well as a contemporaneous statement of what the Architectural Commission and leading architectural historians think to be a fair expression of what the Church feels to be her typical contemporary architecture in the period covered. It is planned that no churches built in the style of any preceding period will be considered in subsequent issues of the Directory.

The attempt to select for this issue typical churches built over the past three hundred years has been a difficult one. Helpful advice was received from many qualified persons. Numerous excellent examples had to be omitted, but we believe that we have chosen churches which were not only typical but which illustrate the best features of the Church's use of architecture in their particular day. Beginning with St. Luke's Church in Smithfield (1632), which is actually a true example of the Gothic churches then being built in England, we trace the development of the Church's use of architecture through the various styles that were developing on this continent both in conjunction with and independent of European practices. Not all of them are grand, not all of them are famous, not every great architect is represented, but each is still standing and is being used for worship to this day. Most are to be seen substantially as they appeared when they were built. It is the unusual good fortune of our Church to have living examples of her past artistic and creative ability.

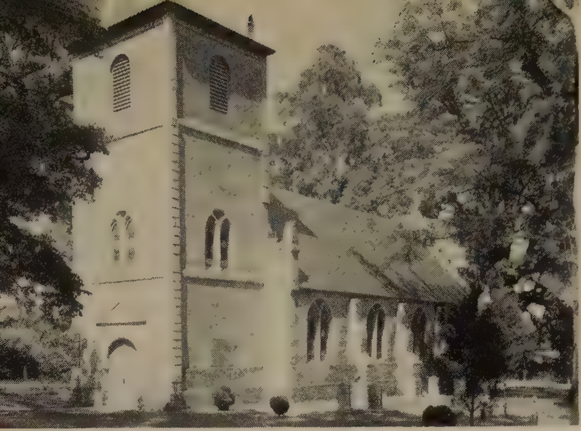
This record should encourage all of us when we think of the future of the Church in architecture. In the selection, we have included four churches that may be called contemporary. St. Mark's Church, St. Louis, and St. Clement's Church, Alexandria, Virginia, represent the first real steps away from tradition; St. John the Divine, Houston, follows closely after and enters the field of larger churches; while St. Stephen's Church, Longview, Washington, definitely points the way to the future.

In all these fifteen churches illustrated on the following pages we feel that there is a close tie between the architecture of the Church and the developing architecture of the society around it, which is as it should be. Regardless of how we look at churches built in the past and in the present and wonder about churches to be built in the future, the record is clear that the Church has always had in every period a contemporary style, even in the Victorian era when the contemporary style was the Gothic revival and its various outgrowths as represented in the churches dating from, say, the 1840's to the early 1900's. For we must remember that the Gothic revival was a contemporary movement in secular culture as well, where all forms of buildings, from city halls to private residences, were directly influenced by an archaeological and romantic return to the styles of the past, for reasons too involved to enumerate in this short statement.

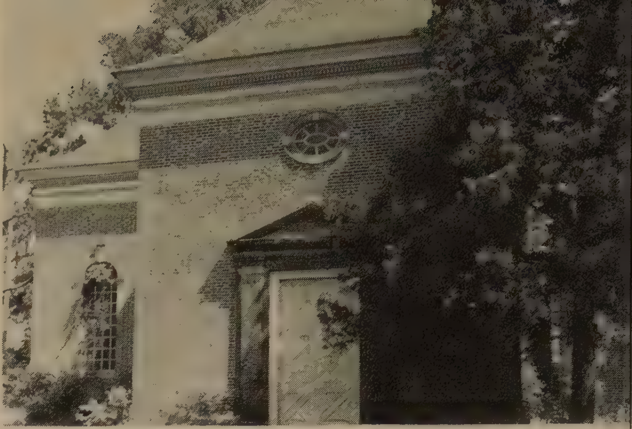
Each style of architecture has the aim of doing the job, doing it beautifully and effectively, and doing it with safety and economy. The differences in styles result primarily from the discovery of new materials and new ways of using old ones, as the architect strives to solve each new problem in the light of present-day needs and customs with the accumulated skills of his individual ingenuity and his ancient profession.

It is hoped that this effort, besides being of value to the historian, will be of value to rectors, vestries, building committees and architects, in constantly reminding them that the Church speaks in the vernacular, not only in her liturgy, her sermons, her Christian education, her social practices and ethics, but in her architecture and art as well. She has always done so without exception, although there has been a time lag in every age. She must continue to do so if she is not to lose her hold on the people, both those she serves and those she hopes to reach.

D. W. Betts



In St. Luke's Church, Smithfield, Virginia, the original Gothic tradition is amazingly illustrated. The earliest brick church now standing in America was built in 1632 and has such Gothic detail as stepped gables, buttresses with splayed offsets, a square entrance tower and pointed arched windows with true brick tracery. (Photo–Frances Benjamin Johnston)



Christ Church, Lancaster County, Virginia, built about 1732, represents the transition from Gothic to Renaissance. The double arched reredos is Jacobean, the cross-shaped plan with complete transepts is Gothic. The placing of the pulpit in the middle of the nave across the transept from the altar is mediaeval rather than Renaissance. However, all the detail of the church is Renaissance in character.

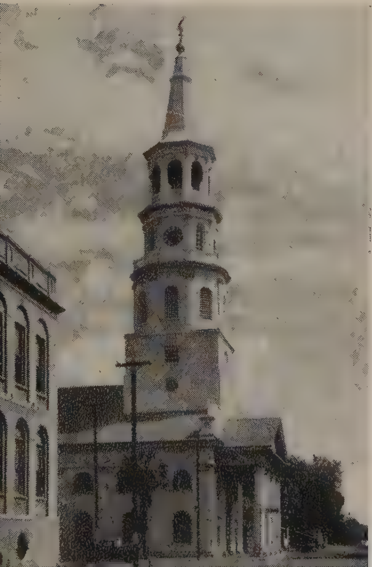
St. Paul's Chapel in New York City is a church without peer in the style of the English Renaissance. Built in 1764-66, the tower and spire are its crowning glory.
(Photos–James Ellery Marble and Gottscho-Schleisner)



In Charleston, South Carolina, St. Michael's Church shows the direct influence of Sir Christopher Wren. Built in 1761 and designed by Sir James Gibbs, who is the architect of the famous St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, London, it still retains a marked English atmosphere.
(Photo–Wayne Andrews)

St. Paul's Cathedral, Boston, is dated 1828 and is to be considered of the Greek Revival period. The simplicity of its facade shows the effort to get behind the Renaissance to the pureness of Greece that originally inspired it.

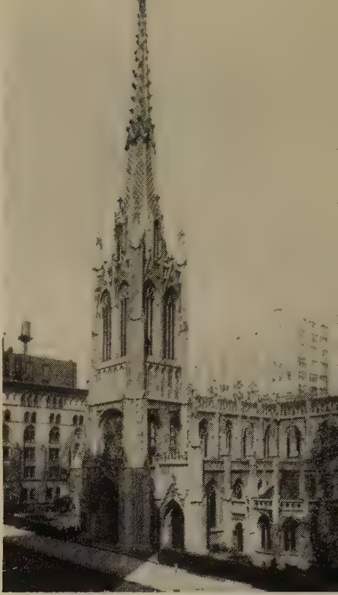
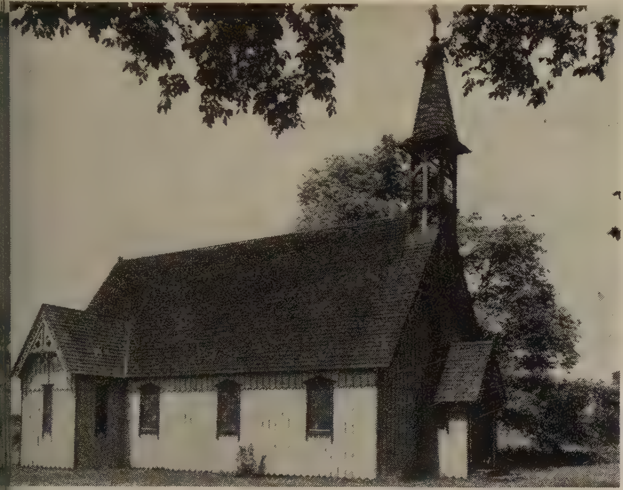
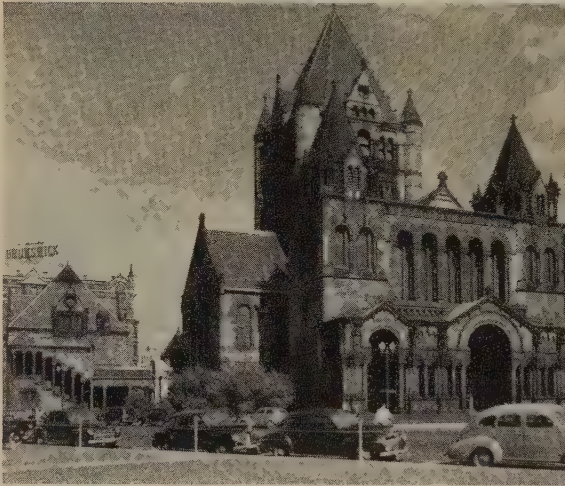
Once the door was open to the widespread copying of Greek forms, Revivalism could not stop there, and the Gothic Revival became a certainty. One of the best examples of the style is Upjohn's St. Mary's Church in Burlington, N. J., built in 1857. (Photo—Wayne Andrews)

Grace Church, New York City, designed by Renwick in 1846, shows the same real understanding of Gothic that is typical of Upjohn, who also did a singularly fine example of urban Gothic in Trinity Church, New York City.



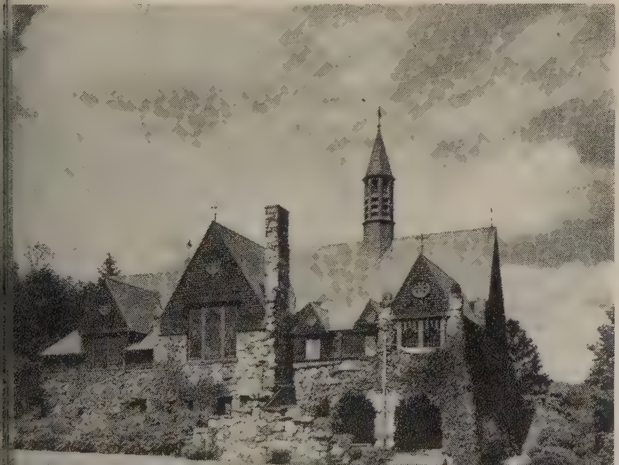


The little Gothic frame church that Upjohn built in 1857 in Clermont, N. Y., shows the use of stone detail done in wood and is charmingly typical of the unrealistic end of the Gothic Revival. (Photo—Wayne Andrews)

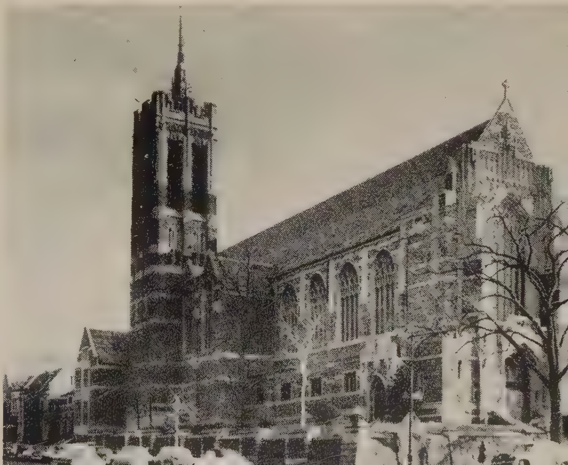


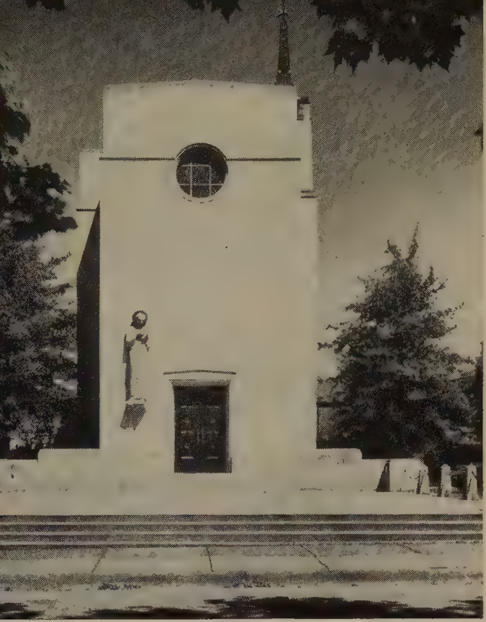
The man who, more than any other, gave Victorian Gothic its death blow was H. H. Richardson. Inspired by the Romanesque work of southern France, he combined bigness of conception, an originality of detail, and a perfection of careful execution that were widely copied. Trinity Church, Boston, built in 1877, was his masterpiece. (Photo—Wayne Andrews)

St. Mary's Church, Tuxedo, New York, built in 1885, is a good example of the fantastic and romantic, all charmingly done, with an eclecticism that even includes the use of the rough fieldstone built into an intimacy which was the Episcopal Church's contribution to a period that often went less gracefully romantic in the examples of denomination buildings. (Photo—Wayne Andrews)



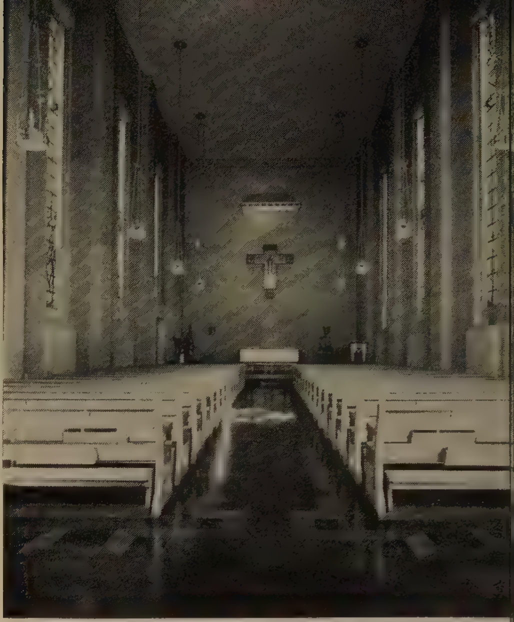
The Chapel of the Intercession, New York City, is typical of the eclecticism and great originality of the neo-Gothic of the first quarter of the twentieth century. English perpendicular lines and a French silhouette with its flèche work well together, as does the restrained simplicity in detail which bursts into flowered richness just at the right moment. Built in 1912 and designed by Goodhue. (Photo—Leon Hecht)



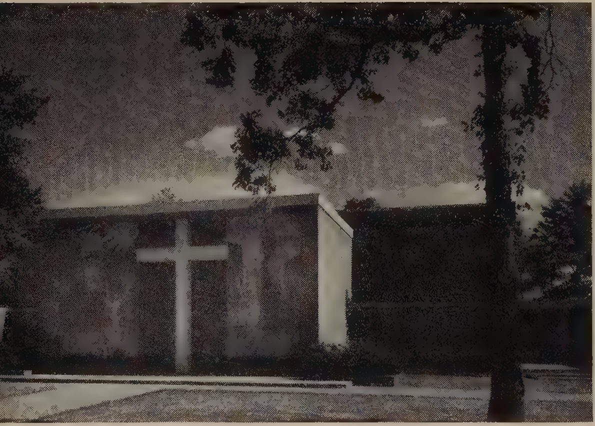


St. Mark's Church in St. Louis is one of the first contemporary churches built by an Episcopalian. Designed by Nagel and Dunn, it was erected in 1938 and represents a real effort successfully conceived to have the Church speak in the vernacular of the current day.

(Photos–Piaget Studios)



St. Clement's Church, Alexandria, Virginia, designed by Joseph Saunders and completed in 1948, demonstrates a willingness to experiment not only with building but with floor plan. Its altar placed in the center of the nave, its complete absence of windows, its air conditioning, its bold mural decoration on the exterior, and its thoroughly functional construction and design make it another pioneer in the effort of the Church to build in the style of today's America.



St. John the Divine, Houston, Texas, is one of the first contemporary churches that is more than of modest proportions. Built (1953) to fit its time and community, it combines freshness and tradition that mingle so tellingly in the Southwest. Much attention has been paid to detail, demonstrating that the Church of today is just as concerned with "quality" as was the Church of the past.

The Northwest is taking a leading position in contemporary church construction. St. Stephen's Church (1952), Longview, Diocese of Olympia, shows what can be done by using old materials in new ways to build economically in a basically traditional form. Both the lovers of the contemporary and the historic should be happy with this charming little church.

ANGLICAN WAYS

A Manual on Liturgical Music for Episcopal Choirmasters by

EVERETT TITCOMB

"The book deals with liturgical matters as they relate to the music that organists and choirmasters will be called upon to provide . . . describes briefly each of the Prayer Book Offices, beginning with the Holy Communion, and the parts of each that are or may be rendered musically. The author discusses each service under two forms — those commonly designated 'High Church' and 'Low Church'. There are also sections on hymns, the Christian Year, plainsong, and polyphony."

The Guild of All Souls

A Prayer Guild of Priests and Laity (men and women) within the Episcopal Church which seeks to promote the Church's teaching in regard to the Faithful Departed; to pray for the dead especially the departed members of the Guild, who are remembered by name on each anniversary; to encourage Christian customs in the burial of the dead, and to urge celebrations of the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, especially at the time of burial, and according to the Propers appointed in the Book of Common Prayer.

The Guild also aids struggling Parishes and Missions in providing proper Vestments for Requiem Masses, and publishes and distributes literature pertaining both to the Catholic Faith and to the life and work of the Guild.

The Rev. Franklin Joiner, D.D., Superior-General
